Career Camps - Fun with a Purpose

This summer, the City of Manassas Fire & Rescue and Police Departments and the Old Towne Sports Pub held camps for rising Freshmen at Osbourn High School. This is the second summer that City of Manassas Departments and Manassas City Public Schools have worked together on this endeavor.

The Manassas City Police Camp was two one-week camps held at the Manassas City Police Department. During Police Camp, teens learned how to conduct a traffic stop; saw demonstrations from the K-9 Unit, Bike Team and Motor Unit; learned about evidence collection; took a tour of the animal shelter; visited with the Manassas City SWAT Team; and learned about physical defense tactics. The week culminated with a laser tag exercise and pizza party.

The Manassas City Police Charitable Foundation, run by the Manassas City Police Association, made a monetary donation to the camps to help with expenses in an effort to provide outreach to youth in our community. The association is run with funds donated by the community, and they feel this is a great way to give back to that community.

The City of Manassas Fire & Rescue Department held one two-week freshman camp and one one-week rising sophomore camp. The freshman camp offered hands-on experience learning what it takes to be a firefighter. Campers suited up in fire gear in under a minute, communicated on the radio, rode in a fire truck, used fire hoses to put out mock fires, and other basic firefighting skills. On the emergency services side, students learned CPR and basic first aid, and explored a medevac helicopter.

The Freshman Fire & Rescue camp was featured on Fox 5's morning show with Annie Yu doing live coverage and working with the teens one morning.

During the Fire & Rescue sophomore camp, students took their skills to the next level, carrying hoses through a burn house, experiencing an airplane crash simulation and using firefighting tools to take apart a car, as firefighters do to extricate victims of car accidents.

These camps were an opportunity for high school students to explore possible career choices as they begin their high school journey. At Osbourn High School, if a student attends both the freshman and sophomore Fire & Rescue camps, they then become eligible for the new EMS/Firefighting courses being offered in their junior and senior years.

A Message from the City Manager

City Manager
William Patrick Pate

Being ready for an emergency is an important matter. Hurricanes, tornados, floods, and other natural and man-made disasters happen. The City of Manassas wants to be prepared to contact you should the unforeseen happen.

In August, the City of Manassas, along with the entire National Capital Region (NCR) contracted with a new company to have this ability. We can now contact every residence in the City that has a landline. However, if you would like to be contacted on a cellphone by text or by voicemail, by email or on another device, you now have that option.

This new alert system is called ALERT City of Manassas. It's easy to register your devices. Visit www.manassascity.org/alert and register to receive important emergency messages from the City of Manassas.

ALERT City of Manassas will only be used when there is an imminent threat to life, health, safety, or property. However, you can register to receive weather notifications from Smart Weather. Want to know if a thunderstorm or snow is headed your way? Sign up to be notified.

This new state-of-the-art system is provided by Everbridge and is being used by the National Capital Region through a grant at no cost to the City of Manassas. I hope you will join me in signing up your preferred devices so that you, too, will be alerted in case of an emergency.

Recognizing Leadership

This summer three Master Technicians from the City of Manassas Fire and Rescue Department graduated from fire officer academies in Virginia. Master Technicians Kevin Shafer and Steve Schmid graduated from the Virginia Fire Officers Academy (VFOA), sponsored by the Virginia Fire Chiefs Association, at the University of Richmond. Master Tech. Matthew Fox graduated from the Northern Virginia Fire &

Rescue Leadership Development Institute held at George Mason University.

Both programs aim to develop leadership skills for future officers in fire service. The VFOA program received more than 140 applications and only 80 students were selected, including our two from Manassas. In addition to teaching leadership skills, both programs offered a rigorous physical workout segment to each day's activities.

Several members of the City of Manassas Fire and Rescue Department have previously graduated from these programs.

Sign up for ALERT City of Manassas today! Don't wait for the emergency to happen. Get signed up so the City can notify you!

Liberia's Master Plan Wins Prestigious Award

A Master Plan for the restoration of Liberia Plantation was named the Outstanding Preservation Plan during the American Planning Association Virginia Chapter Annual Awards held in July. Liberia, built in 1825, was occupied by both Confederate and Union forces. The plantation was visited by President Lincoln during the Civil War, and was a successful dairy farm and family home.

The Master Plan was produced by the planning firm of Rhodeside & Harwell with significant input from staff and a Citizens Advisory Committee. The plan will help the site meet its potential as an attraction, a park amenity, and source of revenue for the residents of the City of Manassas, while still respecting its historic value.

The plan includes detailed design and management guidelines for phasing improvements incrementally over time so that citizens and visitors can enjoy the beautiful 18-acre site for events, walks, historic interpretation, and private rentals.

The plan provides for parking, gardens, and event space, and includes a blueprint for restrooms and office space. Liberia house restoration efforts have revealed significant Civil War graffiti throughout the house that was left by occupying soldiers. Fundraising efforts are underway to complete Liberia's restoration.
